

Regional IVI

The regional data in the Vacancy Report are based on 37 “best fit” regions across the three job boards (SEEK, CareerOne and Australian JobSearch) which contribute to the count of online vacancies. As each job board uses different regions, the Department of Employment created 37 regions which best fit them. It is not possible to assign each and every job advertisement to a single job location with perfect precision, and for this reason, the regional data should be treated as indicative, and not definitive, of labour demand in each region. Maps of the IVI regions with labels are available below.
